

Contents

List of figures.....	XI
List of tables.....	XIII
1 Introduction and problem frame	1
1.1 Background and setting of the research topic.....	1
1.1.1 Research question and expected results.....	3
1.1.2 Relevance and contribution of the work	4
1.2 Practical problem frame.....	4
1.3 Theoretical problem frame.....	5
1.4 Research methodology and classification of the thesis	6
1.4.1 Research concept.....	6
1.4.2 Methodological approach.....	7
1.4.3 Structural approach	10
2 Requirements derived from relationship marketing and customer loyalty	13
2.1 The aim and emergence of marketing paradigms.....	13
2.1.1 Roots of relationship marketing.....	14
2.1.2 The evolution and dominance of the transactional approach	15
2.1.3 The emergence of modern relationship marketing	16
2.1.4 The institutionalisation of customer relationship management	18
2.2 Relationship marketing theories as a foundation for the mobile supported loyalty scheme	18
2.2.1 Evaluation criteria for theory selection for the mobile supported loyalty scheme.....	20
2.2.2 Theories of the neo-institutional paradigm	20
2.2.3 Theories of the neo-behavioural paradigm	24
2.2.4 Neoclassic relationship marketing theories	32

2.2.5	Evaluation of theories for the mobile supported loyalty scheme.....	33
2.2.6	Theory derived functions for the mobile supported loyalty scheme	36
2.3	Customer relationship management as the operationalisation of relationship marketing	40
2.3.1	Customer relationship instruments for the acquisition phase	41
2.3.2	Customer relationship instruments for retention management	43
2.3.3	Customer relationship instruments for recovery management	43
2.3.4	Further instruments of relationship management	44
2.4	One-to-one dialogue oriented marketing approaches and loyalty schemes	45
2.4.1	Recency, frequency, and monetary customer value indicator.....	46
2.5	Loyalty scheme mechanisms and components	47
2.5.1	Customer communication in current loyalty schemes	47
2.5.2	The role of customer rewards in loyalty schemes.....	54
2.5.3	The value of data for relationship management.....	60
2.6	Opportunities for interactive media in the marketing mix.....	67
2.6.1	Interactive elements in online retailing.....	67
2.6.2	Interactive media and corporate communication strategies.....	69
2.6.3	Interactive instruments in customer relationship management.....	72
3	Mobile infrastructure perspective on the loyalty framework.....	75
3.1	Interaction channels supported by mobile devices	75
3.1.1	Voice communication services	75
3.1.2	Messaging services.....	76
3.1.3	Mobile internet services	78
3.1.4	Multimedia support	80
3.1.5	Rich applications.....	82
3.2	Mobile devices and services: use and adoption.....	83
3.2.1	The adoption of mobile technology	83
3.2.2	Operating systems and software	86

3.2.3	Mobile networks	88
3.3	Mobile services	90
3.3.1	Characteristics of mobile services.....	91
3.3.2	Economical characteristics of mobile services	94
3.4	A classification for mobile marketing applications	96
3.4.1	Characteristics of mobile marketing applications.....	97
3.4.2	Objectives of mobile marketing.....	99
3.4.3	Mobile marketing application types.....	100
3.5	The integrated product development process for mobile software	101
3.5.1	Idea generation and evaluation	102
3.5.2	Business model and business case development	103
3.5.3	Legal aspects	105
3.5.4	Market research and user experience design	106
3.5.5	Implementation and testing.....	106
4	The reference model for the mobile supported loyalty scheme	109
4.1	Information systems as enabling technology for mobile relationship marketing	109
4.1.1	Lessons learnt from the Internet as a sales and marketing channel	109
4.1.2	Computer support in the marketing process	110
4.2	A layered architecture for the mobile supported loyalty scheme	112
4.2.1	Presentation layer elements.....	113
4.2.2	Controller layer elements and business logic	113
4.2.3	Domain layer and entity representations.....	114
4.2.4	Data mapping layer and data source abstraction	114
4.3	The reference modelling approach	114
4.3.1	Construction of the reference model.....	115
4.3.2	Application of reference models.....	115
4.4	Functional requirements for mobile supported loyalty schemes	116

4.4.1	A formal representation of the social penetration theory's personality model.....	116
4.4.2	Supporting the social penetration process.....	121
4.4.3	Monitoring and management of the interaction of relationship entities	129
4.4.4	Functional features for the reference model	136
4.5	Modules of the framework for mobile supported loyalty schemes	139
4.5.1	The underlying data model for relationship status representation.....	139
4.5.2	Data analysis and sources of business intelligence.....	146
4.5.3	Workflow management and rule-based communication.....	147
4.5.4	Mobile interaction elements for the framework.....	151
4.6	Communication infrastructure	156
4.6.1	Supporting multichannel communication.....	156
4.6.2	Customer facing functions and outbound communication modules.....	157
4.7	System integration, data collection and analysis	160
4.7.1	Integrating legacy Systems	160
4.7.2	Aggregating information from external data sources	162
4.7.3	Customer insight and knowledge through data mining methods.....	165
5	Analysis of business models for the mobile supported loyalty scheme.....	169
5.1	The business case for mobile supported loyalty	169
5.1.1	Elements of loyalty return.....	172
5.2	Business model design fundamentals	175
5.2.1	Definition of the term business model	176
5.2.2	Elements of the business model	177
5.3	Business models in mobile business	179
5.3.1	The value architecture for mobile business	179
5.3.2	Mobile third party service providers	180
5.4	Loyalty systems business models	182
5.4.1	Technology provider business models	183

5.4.2	Service provider business model	185
5.5	A business model for the provisioning of mobile supported loyalty schemes .	186
5.5.1	The role as a mobile third party service provider	186
5.5.2	The role as a loyalty system provider	187
5.5.3	Business model components	188
6	Reference model evaluation.....	197
6.1	Evaluation through case study research.....	197
6.2	Banking industry case study	198
6.2.1	Applied elements of the reference model	198
6.2.2	Identification and design of the mobile customer touch points	200
6.2.3	System integration.....	203
6.2.4	Results from program operation	204
6.3	Retail industry case study	205
6.3.1	Applied elements of the reference model	206
6.3.2	Identification and design of the mobile customer touch points	207
6.3.3	System integration.....	210
6.3.4	Results from system analysis and design.....	212
6.4	Multi-partner program operator case study	212
6.4.1	Applied elements of the reference model	213
6.4.2	Identification and design of the mobile customer touch points	215
6.4.3	Results from system analysis and design.....	217
6.5	Overview of evaluated reference model elements.....	218
7	Results and recommendations.....	221
7.1	The reference model for mobile customer communication.....	221
7.2	Implications for practitioners.....	222
7.3	Opportunities for future research.....	224
	Bibliography	227