

Table of Contents

A.	Overview.....	1
A.1	Introduction.....	3
A.2	The Internationalization Process in Service Companies.....	15
A.3	The MARIS Toolkit in a Nutshell	35
B.	A Toolkit for the International Implementation of Services	63
	Service Design	65
B.1	Process Modeling with SeeMe: A Modeling Method for Service Processes.....	67
B.2	The Socio-Technical Walkthrough for Participatory Process Design.....	83
B.3	Service Modularization for Customer-Specific Service Design Based on Highly Standardized Services.....	101
	Choice of Location.....	119
B.4	Market Assessment: The Choice of Location Method.....	121
B.5	Service Assessment for Identifying Adaptation Requirements	139
	Service Transfer	153
B.6	Modular Service Configuration for Identifying Value-Adding Services for Internationalization.....	155
B.7	The International Service Implementation Checkup (ISIC) Workshop.....	169
	Case Studies.....	187
B.8	Systematic Service Internationalization Processes: The Case of M-ALPHA.....	189
B.9	Organizing International Service Management: The Case of M-BETA	213
B.10	Preparing for Service Export: The Case of M-GAMMA.....	229
B.11	Lessons Learned.....	245

C.	Theoretical Foundations	259
C.1	Theoretical and Methodological Foundations of the MARIS Choice of Location Method.....	261
C.2	Designing Services as Adaptable Reference Models	275
C.3	Theoretical Foundations of the Socio-Technical Walkthrough.....	293
C.4	Foundations of Service Modularization: Towards a Design Theory for Productizing Solutions.....	309
C.5	Theoretical Foundations of Modularization: A Strategic Management Perspective.....	329
D.	Perspectives and Outlook.....	347
D.1	Caught between a Rock and a Hard Place: An Empirical Study of the Internationalization of Small and Medium-Sized Logistics Service Providers	349
D.2	Creativity in Process Design	383
D.3	Engineering, Sales, and Delivery of Modular Value Bundles: A Framework for Configurative Modeling	399
D.4	The Regional Policy of Industrial IPM Services for the Development of Knowledge Potential in Russia.....	425
D.5	The Economic Aspects of the Development of Car Manufacturing and After-Sales Services in the Republic of Tatarstan	437
	Author Index	451